ALWAYS PLACID.

The Beceiving Telegraph Clerk who Refused to Show an Interest.

[From the Detroit Free-Press.] The receiving clerks behind the desks at the telegraph offices are cool, placid fellows. They take your message of life or death with perfect indifference, mechanically count the words, and look a bit bored as they reply: "It will be sixty-five cents, please me by softly whispering to himself as he counted the words in the following HIS OPINION OF A RED HEADED

DOING JUSTICE.

The feature of last week in the house The feature of last week in the house was the Romeis-Hurd election contest. The speech of Mr. Frank Hurd in advocacy of his right to the seat held by Mr. Romeis was listened to with marked attention, and is generally conceded to have been one of the most eloquent speeches of the session. At the close of his remarks he was greeted with loud and long continued applanse with loud and long continued applause on the floor and in the galleries. A vote being taken it was decided Mr. Romeis was entitled to his seat, the rote standing 105 to 168. And thus a democratic house seats a republican member. How different from the good I had my eye on a certain chap for several weeks before I humbled his pride. He insulted me. He insulted member, every time, right or wrong.

Two salaon keepers have been arrested on suspi-cion, and it is thought that they poisoned the water in order to end the services, which were having a depressing effect upon their business. It does not take very much intelligence to unde stand that the liquor traffic can only cut its own throat by any such diabolically criminal proceedings as these. This is a free country, where liberty of speech is not to be abridged, especially where it is used in the case of morality and temperance.

Lines on the Dude of the West. BY LYCIDAS.

Our friend Frank A, of Lexington. A dude by reputation Beats any eastern city stock In his dress education He is an artist in his line,

A dude who bears dissection, Full-blooded and notorious, Without one imperfection. To see him walking with his girl Of - - Seminary, You'ld say there goes a meal sack stuffed. Some living statuary. His pipe stem legs and paint mustache,

His smiles of affectation, And mashing habits are indeed, A dude's true combination,

In front of Keller's clothing house, He stands on exhibition. Poised in a striking attitude Defying competition. And ev'ry pretty college girl,

Out for perambulation, Is drawn by some magnetic charm. To pass that said location. The winks and blinks that are exchang'd

The smiling and flirtation That hourly happen near this spot, Are his chief occupation. Our friend cares not for village maids Too tame's their disposition,

Girls from a distance, gay as larks, Just suit his wild condition, To get with one and mash her is, The height of his ambition. Our dude is after rocks, and says,

Expects some day he'll catch on. And marry some Miss Million yet, Who is a red-nead maiden. An heiress with a wart upon Her little nosey posey, Her cheeks both scarred would be to him

Her feet not mates, it would'nt hurt, Just so she's got the dollars, So he can dress in style and wear, Hand-painted cuffs and collars. A slicker specimen can't be found. Of Dudeland's importation, For all get stuck upon his shape,

The same as though they're rosy.
